If the above info.Q: JQuery Add Class on button click, but only for already existing classes I'm looping through a collection of products. I'm wanting to add a class to a button when clicked. Currently the code is adding a class to all "add button"s. It needs to check if the class already exists, and if it does, not add it again. below is a fiddle with my current code. My script for adding the class is: `$(document).ready(function(){ $("button").click(function(){ $(this).addClass("add"); }); });` and the html: `add add add add add A: You need to target the button that is clicked then find any of the existing button's to see if it is already added. Try this: $(document).ready(function(){ $("button").click(function(evt){ if ( $(this).hasClass("add") ) { return; } $(this).addClass("add"); }); });` Demo A: You don't need to look for elements already added. Just look for the current button and add the class: `$(document).ready(function(){ $("button").click(function(){ 0cc13bf012`
